Cash for College and Free Educational Resources

Dear Linda:

For thirty years, the Ayn Rand Institute (ARI) has sponsored worldwide essay contests for Ayn Rand's best-selling novels Anthem, The Fountainhead and Atlas Shrugged (the latter for college undergrads and grads). This year ARI will award over 730 prizes totaling more than $100,000 in cash prizes. Your students are eligible to participate in the Anthem and The Fountainhead contests!

And here's something to give them an edge on the competition:

ARI Campus—a comprehensive online resource for learning about Ayn Rand, her works and her ideas—is home to free courses on both Anthem and The Fountainhead. The courses include in-depth analyses of the novels and will deepen your students' understanding of the characters, plots and themes. Taking one of these courses is the perfect first step to writing a winning essay!

Here is what other teachers are saying:

"They were wonderful sources. I wish I had an entire semester to use them."

"Very well put together and useful."

"Planned lessons that I could use in class."

But don't take our word for it. Check it out for yourself.
