Hi there,

I think that [REDACTED] is struggling with computer technology. It sounds like the computer he is using is different than the school ones, so when directions are given his is opening things differently? This seems to be causing him to fall behind and then become frustrated.

We have been trying to troubleshoot with him but it has been tricky.

I am wondering if you guys would want to pick up a school laptop? Or, do you have any thing else in mind?

Thanks,
