

Eunice Gayson, the First Bond Girl, Dies at 90

By Laura M. Holson

June 11, 2018

Eunice Gayson, the British stage and film actress who earned a place in cinema history as the first Bond girl, died on Friday. She was 90.

Her death was announced on her Twitter account. No other details were provided.

Ms. Gayson appeared in the first James Bond film, “Dr. No,” from 1962, as the sultry Sylvia Trench. She meets the British spy Bond (Sean Connery) at the elegant club Le Cercle over a game of cards. It was the first time he introduced himself as “Bond. James Bond.”

Show Full Article