I'm collecting that now, actually for a broader piece on mental health and distance learning.
It's really bad in SF and Oakland.

Tucker!

Hope you're surviving this madness. You've bene doing a great job on the SFUSD stuff. Quick question for you. I like this line -- Research is increasingly showing that, despite the best efforts of teachers, many students are struggling with distance learning, while their mental and emotional health are at greater risk. -- from one of your recent stories: <https://www.sfchronicle.com/education/article/Calling-all-billionaires-S-F-plans-to-ask-15862836.php>

It would help me out if you could point me to a study or two that talks about the mental health toll on kids from distancing learning.

Thank you and stay safe!
