ciao josh

thanks. very clever, but i think we should stay clear of anything remotely political---however latinized---in the tagline. now here's a question: you've written that the USMC motto is "always faithful" but that what the marines write and say is "semper fi." my understanding is that the motto is, technically, semper fidelis, and sometimes the second word is abbreviated to "fi." however, my sense is that the motto isn't "always faithful" but rather than is how the actual, latin motto is translated into english (the english not being, in other words, the motto but the translation of the motto).

mottos often get confused. these days, one often hears that the university of dayton motto is "learn, lead, and serve." properly speaking, that is not it; rather the UD motto is "pro deo et patria," for god and country, certainly a more charged motto, and a more dated one politically and in terms of the "alliance" of politics and the church than what would be "acceptable" these days.

thanks. yours, roger

Hi all!

If you like "Stronger Together", " like I do, but want to stay away from the political connection, then try doing what the US Marine Corps (USMC) does.

The motto of the USMC is "Alway Faithful." But they NEVER say that. Instead, they say "Semper Fi," or the motto in Latin. It's a lot cooler ;-)

Now it's been 3.5 decades since did a Latin translation, so I punted, used the Google, and got this:

Fortior Una

Which translates... somewhat (Latin's tricky that way)... to "Stronger Together."

Just my two cents...

thanks for your note; i too didn't immediately register the clinton connection with "stronger together." robin actually pointed out to me this afternoon that that was the clinton tagline of 2016. your right: this is hard! let me put the notion of "togetherness" into the mix and see where it shakes out with the others. i was hoping may try to get a group read on this yet this weekend, but we won't make a decision without you leigh ann. thanks. yours, roger Gah! Had no idea about that! I have a feeling a lot of the ideas for tag lines may be used in other places ... but avoiding a Clinton Q-Anon association would be a good idea.

Perhaps "building together" "working together" "learning together" "growing together"....

I like the connotation of the word "together."

I also like the idea of action verbs but we need to keep this short... and I am having a hard time finding succinct verb phrases. Ideally, the image in the logo will get our main message across and the tag line is the extra stuff. Oakwood Inclusion Coalition is certainly very clear in its meaning. I see the tag line as a way to pull folks in... that's why I like the "we're all in this together" approach.

I will have spotty access to email starting tomorrow... back next Friday. So if I don't reply quickly, you know I'm not disengaged... just unattached to WiFi.

My best,

thanks. i'm confident that your suggestion of last night got through to all; i was just waiting to see if there were any responses. your suggestion of "stronger together" would, i think, be an excellent addition were it not for the fact that that same statement was hillary clinton's campaign slogan in 2016 (see this NPR story on that fact: <https://www.npr.org/2016/08/08/489138602/trump-comment-gives-clinton-a-campaign-slogan-with-layered-meaning>).

so i think we ought to steer clear of that one for the obvious political reasons, not to mention any copyright matters that this might touch up against. do you and others concur with this reservation?

my goal is to get out the possibilities today or tomorrow morning at the latest for a vote among the members of the leadership team, so please all send any other ideas in addition to the ones that we have.

dear all:

i just touched base with jayne whitaker, and she brought up an interesting possibility for us, namely that we should aim to have 1 tagline BUT that the student design firms could also work creativity---say for possible Far Hills banner proposals---with a set of key words that are important to the OIC.

so, i'd suggest that as we boil things down toward our tagline, we think also about maybe a dozen words that we could also furnish to the students? this might be a nice way for us "to have our cake and eat it too" (have our tagline and other words that we like!).

Healy,

I like your thinking.

The draft logos are most certainly, and appropriately, OIC focused.

The words "belong" and "enrich" bother me. To me, "belong" sounds somewhat prescriptive, and "enrich" could be taken as going in the direction of physical wealth or maybe even elitist... maybe???

How about: "Citizens Building Community for All"?

I also agree that making a final decision on the tag line is best done in conjunction with finalizing the logo.

More thoughts:

I suggested the words,
"Citizens" to drive the point that
we are a citizen-driven organization.

Ideally, shouldn't the logo/tagline compliment or at least interplay with one another? For example, with one possible logo that incorporates anything that looks like our often-used "O" or oak tree motif, the tagline: OIC: Growing Inclusion could work. In short, we may wait to make a final decision about the tagline until after we see the logo designs.

Roger, have you previewed the students' designs? Are they City of Oakwood or OIC focused?
