Q14

If you could change one thing about this school, what would it be and why?

Only one thing?

Give the teachers time in their day to prep and plan for the myriad things they are responsible for daily. Beyond basic classroom responsibilities -- contact with home, meetings, collaboration, PD, dealing with the plethora of issues our population deals with used to be hard. Now it is a stress intensifying, mental anguish inducing near impossibly in the tightened schedule.

Q14

If you could change one thing about this school, what would it be and why?

one thing? I have 3

Find a way to make students inspired and curious to find out more about the world around them, beyond what is taught in the classroom

Discourage kids (and teachers) from relying on google for their answers.

Encourage, and I really, really mean this - encourage teachers to look at our students as future citizens who will be in charge of our collective future in a few short years. NOTHING is more disappointing or disheartening than hearing variations of 'voting doesn't matter, 'oh if only voting was a solution,' and 'well you can't change the system.' These are the worst things I hear in this school, and all too often. Apathy and giving up on democracy, sometimes WHILE TEACHING ABOUT DEMOCRACY is one of the most absurd things I have come across. Our students are the future of the country, so I think that it should be impressed upon the faculty to keep a chin up about the benefits of voting and civics and participation, and not make pessimists out of our students before they've even gotten a chance.

Q14

If you could change one thing about this school, what would it be and why?

I would change how administration treats the staff and performs their job. It would be consistent and fair. It would not matter who you are related to. The administration should have the same expectations for all teachers and not just let things slide because they are family. If someone doesn't leave lesson plans or shows up for their duty it should be handled the same way for all teachers. In addition, I would have the same expectations for all administrators. Why are some administrators allowed to come late everyday but not stay past 3:30? Why are some administrators allowed to bring their family members to school everyday under the guise of a school volunteer? Why are some administrators allowed to vacation multiple vacations during the school year? Why teachers continue to write referrals when consequences are nothing more than a discussion. Why are we making it less and less appealing for people to want to work in this school with this administration? Why does the administration complain about not having time in their day to walk the halls or the lunchroom but can walk their dog outside multiple times a day? The administration can do more for the climate in the school by supporting the teachers and respecting them than all the party planning going on. Too much bowling and treats being distributed and not enough educational work going on. Want to boost moral? Allow teachers a voice when creating the master schedule. Be consistent and timely with the discipline. The only good thing that has been going on is the professional development - kudos to Tiffany!

Q14

If you could change one thing about this school, what would it be and why?

I would change the way that consequences are handled within the school. I often see that certain students are getting different consequences than other students in identical situations (besides situations where IEPs and/or behavior plans are involved) and the students notice as well. The students also say things such as "Nothing will happen" or "I'll be right back" when sent to office.

Q14

If you could change one thing about this school, what would it be and why?

student academic helplessness

Even extremely successful students overlook their ability to try and answer their own questions that are easily verifiable, such as spelling and word meanings, by using tools at their disposal; notes, Chromebook, or a seat partner. It is my experience that they become frustrated and angry when I direct them to use the tools they have, and exhaust those resources first. Rather, they want me to just tell them the answer.
