

1. Paige threatens that if I don't list the former marital residence that day, she'll file something in the court.
2. She doesn't file something in the court, she places a call to the DCF hotline.
3. I note as much to DCF.
4. The DCF complaint is quickly closed out.

She owes me $2,700 in child support overpayment, and she's lost out on the $30,000 she was due to receive from the marital property due to the incompetence of her divorce lawyer. Not to mention as of 8/1/2022 she no longer receives child support. At the beginning of the year, she was receiving $1300 a month in child support. She's only going to ramp up from here.

Subject: Child support

I will gladly pay the child support arrears once the house is sold.
Medical expenses are separate from child support per the order.
If the house is not listed by today I'm filing a motion tomorrow.

There's still nothing filed in the divorce case alleging I'm not complying with the final judgment or that my mental health is in controversy.

There's no emergency motion to take exclusive custody of the kids.

The day before a call was placed to the DCF hotline, my ex-wife sent me a message via our family wizard that threatened "If the house is not listed today I'm filing a motion tomorrow." This is contained within the first document I sent you. I don't doubt your ability, but I know that you guys are busy and I don't want things to be overlooked.
