Hello William!

I hope all is well! I just wanted to pass on a complaint from a citizen regarding the Starship delivery robots. I have spoken to this gentleman, Walt Scott, on more than one occasion regarding various traffic related complaints around campus (mainly along N. Virginia Street) as he uses the post office on campus and teaches in Virginia City. He apparently once worked with the brother of our former chief so he consistently calls our department for any and all complaints, police related or not.

He claims that the other night he was traveling on N. Virginia Street near the Fleishmann Planetarium when a Starship robot pulled out right in front of him in a crosswalk and he had to swerve to avoid striking it. Now I know those robots do not quickly whip out as he was essentially describing but he insisted on wanting to speak with me about the issue, as he believes it is inevitable that one will be hit by a vehicle and "sue for millions." He believes that the robots crossing Virginia Street is "too much."

I of course explained to him that the police department has nothing to do with the delivery robots but that I would pass the information along.

Thanks!
