I assume you have seen it? It could be the end of him. You may need to think about who you want for a new Board member.

How are you guys doing? Still in Idaho?

On our way back. I don't see how he doesn't resign. Reading all the angry emails has helped pass the long drive. I just posted my statement to FB.

Superintendent's statement on recent events

V/S
Vancouver Public Schools <do_not_reply@vansd.org>

To: VANCOUVER PUBLIC SCHOOLS Recipients

Dear VPS community,

In light of recent events reported in *The Columbian newspaper, I want to be clear about my position as superintendent of schools. Racism in any form is wholly inconsistent with our mission, values and beliefs. It cannot be tolerated. Vancouver Public Schools is working very hard as an organization to promote equity and justice for our students, families, employees and community.

As an adoptive father of a multiracial family, I know this: The feelings of pain and hurt felt by many people in our community are real. We must endeavor together to work toward creating a more just and humane world. The children of our school district and community deserve nothing less.

Mr. Stoker is an elected official with a 13-year history of service to our district. It is his responsibility to respond to concerns about the comments he made on his personal social media account.

Sincerely,

Steven T. Webb, Ed.D.
Superintendent

I woke up to a barrage of messages this morning alerting me that a fellow VPS School Director made a racist comment on Twitter in response to the protests in Portland. I am incredibly disheartened to learn that one of my VPS School Director colleagues - elected to guide policy decisions in our public schools - chose to make an insensitive and offensive statement.

After such a tragic week, with pain and devastation spread across our nation, our communities are hurting. I have personally been struggling to process the week's events. I have been reading an... See More

I have had several people share with me today a comment made via social media by one of my fellow VPS school board directors. The comment was clearly racist in tone, if not intent. (I can't speak to another person's intent, only to the way it was received by myself and others in our community.)

First, I want to make it absolutely clear that Mark Stoker was speaking as an individual and his comments (via Twitter or any other platform) should in no way be construed as representing the views of the district or its Board. As a private citizen, public school educator, school board director, and human being, I unequivocally condemn his remarks and the actions they encouraged. I recognize the hurt inflicted by such words and sentiments and refuse to be associated with them, no matter how remotely. It sickened me to see his comment, and I am dumbfounded that anyone could fail to see it as anything other than racist.

Finally, I also have had people asking how will Director Stoker be held accountable? Will he be disciplined? Will he be required to make amends or apologies? There have been calls made on social media asking people to email the superintendent to somehow bring him to task. In truth, the superintendent has no authority over school board directors. It is, in fact, the other way around. The only authority Mark Stoker is accountable to is his constituency. People are, of course, free to email the superintendent or myself and the other board members. They will get a sympathetic response from those of us who were also disgusted by Director Stoker's comments. However, the only authority who can make Director Stoker accountable for his words are the voters. I encourage you to email him directly and let him know your feelings. But please also remember this in 2021: elections matter.

I echo the words of our school board president, Wendy Smith, in stating that Mr Stoker's words are his own and in NO way represent the views of the district or the board.

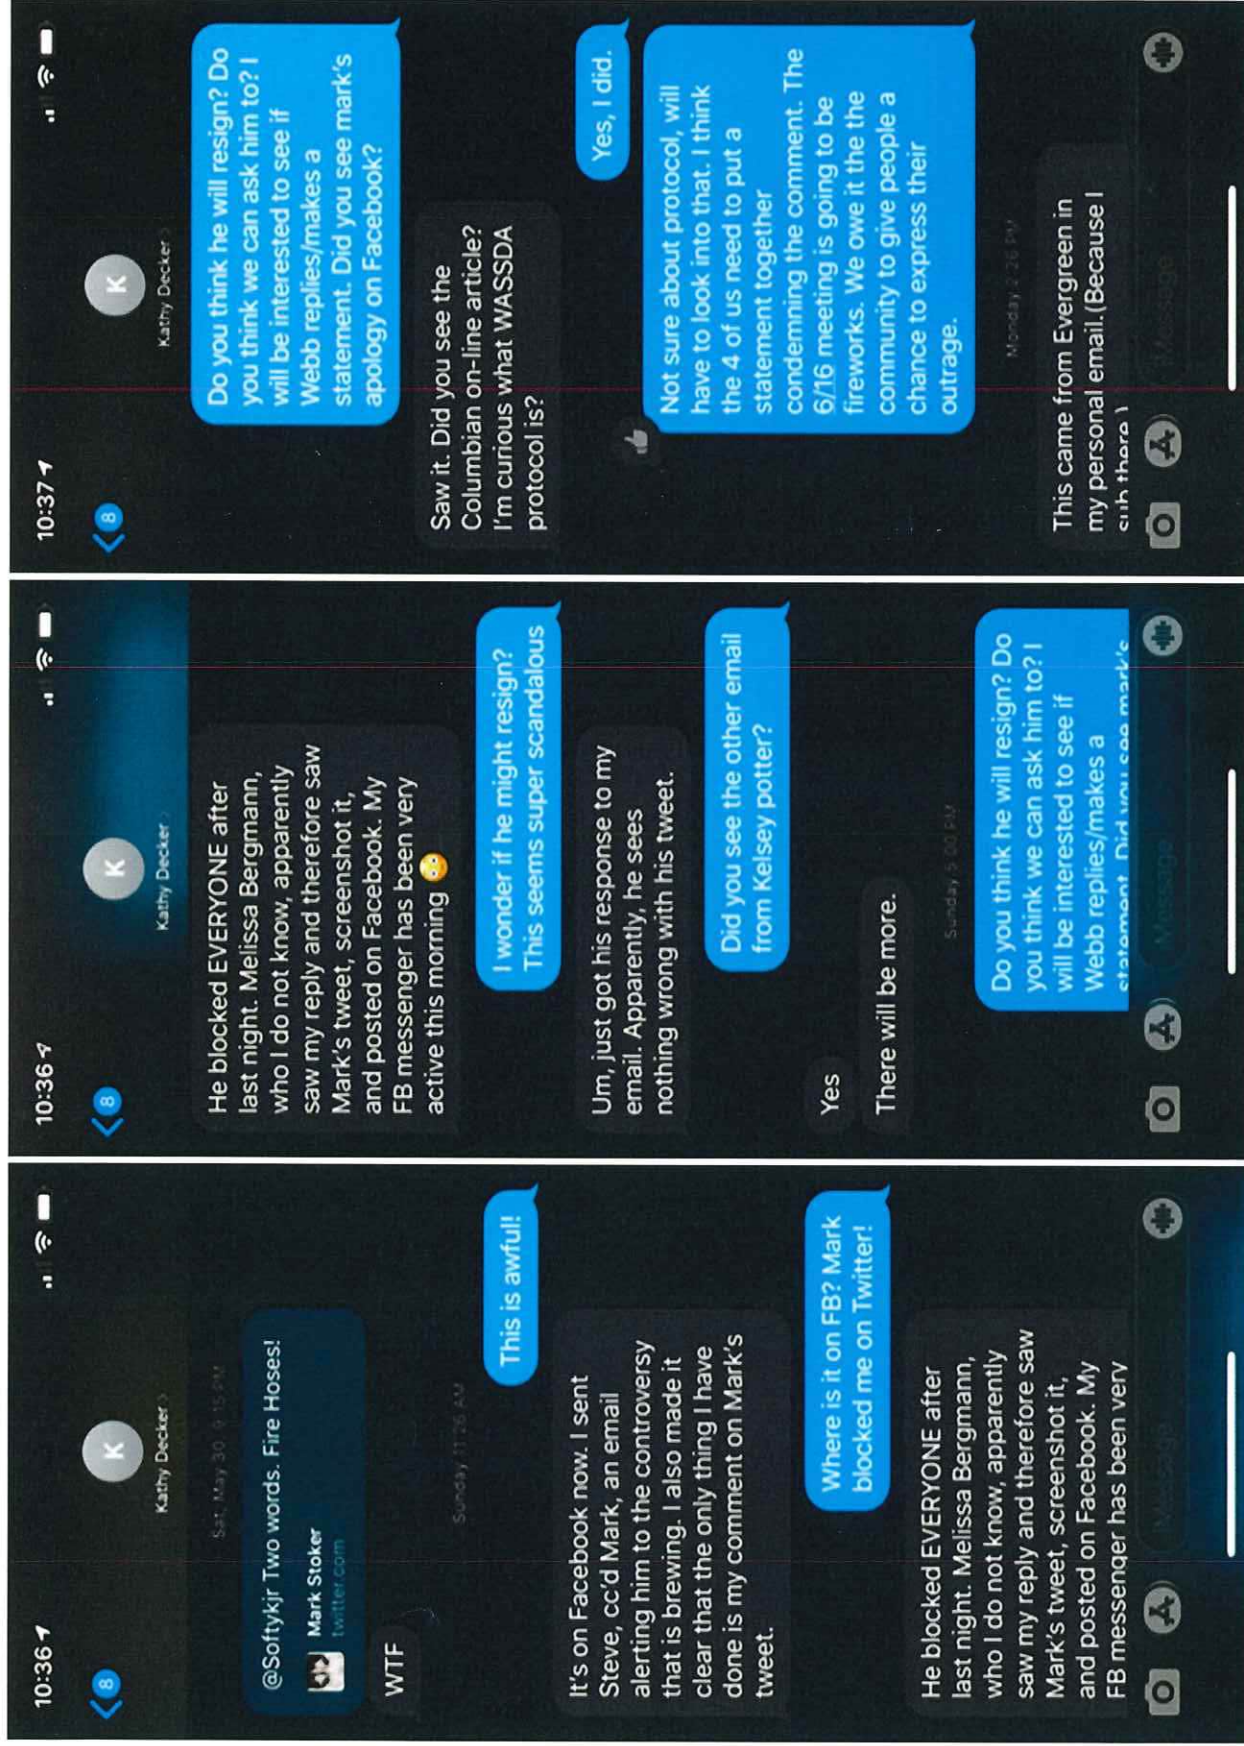

As an elected member of our community, and as an educator myself, I take seriously the responsibility I have to ensure we create safe spaces for our students and staff, that racism is not tolerated within our walls, and that we move forward to tackle the systemic racism and social injustices that exist wit... This came from Evergreen in my personal email. (Because I sub there.)

Dear Evergreen Community,

As the events of the last week highlighted and history has shown, it is clear that there is much work to be done as a society. Tragically, there are too many examples of wrongful deaths and mistreatments occurring in our country, and we need to do better. I grew up in a family with a deaf father, and a hearing impaired mother, and always felt this was a significant challenge to face growing up. As I've aged, and been exposed to so much more, it is easy to see how many advantages I had, even with challenges, others weren't afforded. I believe society needs to acknowledge the advantages, and disadvantages, our children and our students face on a daily basis.

In Evergreen, we welcome and embrace the diverse backgrounds our students bring to school. Tenet two of our Instructional Tenets provides that equity and inclusive practices are foundational in our support of all students. Evergreen has a history of equity initiatives, and for many years has had a district equity team. This team is being reinvigorated with involvement from district administration, and all labor groups including Evergreen Administrators Association, Evergreen Education Association, and the Public School Employees. I appreciate their commitment to partnering in this effort.

In January, Chief Human Resources Officer Jenae Gomes presented a new Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Recruitment plan to the Evergreen School Board. With their support and belief, we commit to our students that they should see faces that reflect the diversity of our student population every day they attend our schools.

My belief is that every student should have every opportunity to have the best education possible. I believe every student and staff member should always work hard and do their best, to improve themselves every day. Everyone should hold themselves accountable to this work. We as a system should at all times put our students at the forefront of every decision made, and we should always work with integrity. This fuels my work at Evergreen.

The property damage to businesses downtown that were suffering already is inexcusable. How are we not more prepared for this? We knew these protests were scheduled days in advance. We knew people with ulterior motives would try and show up and disrupt it. And they have.

Don't know if you wanna but someone might want to alert Steve that he's going to need to be aware of Mark's recent tweet regarding the riots. 😞

The property damage to businesses downtown that were suffering already is inexcusable. How are we not more prepared for this? We knew these protests were scheduled days in advance. We knew people with ulterior motives would try and show up and disrupt it. And they have.

Where is it on FB?

Um, just got his response to my email. Apparently, he sees nothing wrong with his tweet.

Did you see the other email from Kelsey potter?

Do you think he will resign? Do you think we can ask him to? I will be interested to see if Webb replies/ makes a statement. Did you see mark's apology on Facebook?
